RevCycle Partners Now Supports Officemate and CrystalPM

The revenue cycle management company positions itself to grow its insurance billing services with the addition of the leading platforms in optometry.

CHICAGO, IL -- RevCycle Partners, a revenue cycle management company serving eye care practices, now supports Officemate and CrystalPM, two of the leading practice management and EHR software providers, with its insurance billing services.

"By adding support of Officemate and CrystalPM to our existing RevolutionEHR offering," says CEO Paul Hartge, we now provide RCM services on practice management solutions used by the majority of optometric practices in the U.S." "This is a major milestone for RevCycle Partners and positions us for significant growth."

RevCycle Partners, under the leadership of Hartge and Christine Schneider, Vice President of Operations, formally separated from RevolutionEHR/Rev360 in May 2018 and became an independent company with separate ownership. In 2013, RevolutionEHR, the leading cloud-based software for optometrists, launched "RevCycle" as an outsourced billing service for its software customers. The meteoric rise of RevCycle's services prompted the RevolutionEHR/Rev360 senior team to create a new company.

In forming a new company, Hartge and Schneider sought to create continuity in service of RevolutionEHR customers while expanding their vision to become a full-service, revenue cycle management business that serves multiple platforms. Officemate and CrystalPM are the second and third platforms to be added since the spin-off. RevCycle Partners plans to support more software platforms in the near future.
